

Navigating Theory on Demand

PublishingLab
06-10-2015

Josip Batinic
Léna Robin

|                   |   |
|-------------------|---|
| New objectives    | 3 |
| Process           | 4 |
| First Productions | 5 |
| Next Steps        | 6 |

New objectives

Re-designing the Publications webpage

Interview with Silvio Lorusso

General tips/recommandations on how to proceed further
Confirmed our assumptions

Website Development

30 Jan.

Final
Website

New factors in play

New book: Gray Zones

New deadline: Moneylab (3rd Dec.)

Website Development

30 Jan.

Final
Website

MoneyLab

03 Dec.

30 Jan.

Final
Website

Website Development (Gray Zones)

Website Development (Gray Zones)

Final Draft

Feedback

Process

HTML/Wordpress

HTML:

Control & Consistency with the project,
More freedom for the layout,
Infinite potential,
Contributing to the Hybrid Publishing Workflow (Pandoc)

Wordpress:

Ideally, it would be adaptable to Wordpress

Institute of Network Cultures

<http://networkcultures.org>

Gray Zones

<http://books.networkcultures.org/tod/grayzones>

Institute of Network Cultures

<http://networkcultures.org>

Theory On Demand

<http://books.networkcultures.org/tod>

Gray Zones

<http://books.networkcultures.org/tod/grayzones>

Institute of Network Cultures

<http://networkcultures.org>

INC Library

<http://books.networkcultures.org>

Theory On Demand

<http://books.networkcultures.org/tod>

Gray Zones

<http://books.networkcultures.org/tod/grayzones>

Survey

Sent to:

INC mailing list (newsletter)

Geert's contacts

People who have purchased INC publications

Shared on:

Facebook

Twitter by @PublishingLabNL (28 Sep.)

So far: 84 answers

80 réponses

Afficher toutes les réponses    Publier les données analytiques

Résumé

[Image]

1/ Researching online

Title [1- When looking for a publication online, what are the essential things you search for?]

Author [1- When looking for a publication online, what are the essential things you search for?]

Editor [1- When looking for a publication online, what are the essential things you search for?]

Keywords/Thematics/Tags [1- When looking for a publication online, what are the essential things you search for?]

2/ Reading on computer (laptop & desktop computer)

Ligne sans nom 1 [3- How often do you read on digital publishing platforms? (Issuu, Scribd... )]

4- Which online platform do you prefer to read on?

5- a. Which solution do you usually opt for, when reading a long publication online on your computer?

5- b. Please explain your answer.

6- How would you evaluate your experience of reading PDFs on a computer screen?

7- When reading on your computer, do you prefer...

|   |           |        |
|---|-----------|--------|
| To read on an "emulated"/"spreaded" book: 2 pages face to face and click on bottom to turn the pages. | 6  | 7.2 %  |
| To read one page on a screen and to scroll down to read the whole content.                            | 54 | 65.1 % |
| To read one page on a screen but paginated (not scrolling, click on bottom to turn the pages)         | 15 | 18.1 % |
| Autre   | 8  | 9.6 %  |

13- When reading on your tablet, do you prefer...

|   |           |        |
|---|-----------|--------|
| To read on an "emulated" book: 2 pages face to face and click on bottom to turn the pages     | 4  | 8.3 %  |
| To read on a "simple" webpage and to scroll down to read the whole content.                   | 21 | 43.8 % |
| To read one page on a screen but paginated (not scrolling, click on bottom to turn the pages) | 21 | 43.8 % |
| Autre   | 2  | 4.2 %  |

23 Oct.    30 Oct.

MoneyLab

03 Dec.

30 Jan.

Scope of Work

Produce different versions of the website,
Archive it on Github,
Using the survey to help us making choices.

This repository Search

Pull requests Issues Gist

Unwatch 2 Star 0 Fork 0

LenaRobin / navigatingtod

Unwatch 2

Star 0

Fork 0

Navigating TOD — Edit

8 commits

1 branch

0 releases

1 contributor

Branch: master

navigatingtod / +

Html+CSS

LenaRobin authored 4 days ago

latest commit 0140f6a262

SprintPresentations/Dossier NavigatingTheoryOnDemand... indd

4 days ago

webdesign/test1

Html+CSS

4 days ago

INC_library_draft.ai

add

4 days ago

README.md

Update README.md

4 days ago

README.md

navigatingtod

We are currently re-designing the Publications webpage of the Publishing Lab (part of the Institute of Network Cultures) website.

Here is where the process is archived.

Code

Issues 0

Pull requests 0

Wiki

Pulse

Graphs

Settings

HTTPS clone URL

<https://github.com/LenaRobin/navigatingtod>

You can clone with HTTPS, SSH, or Subversion.

Clone in Desktop

Download ZIP

First

Productions

HOMEABOUTPROJECTSPUBLICATIONSBLOGCONTACTNEWSLETTER

Go to the INC Library

Hogeschool van Amsterdam
Amsterdam University of Applied Sciences

Gray Zones
 Gordana Nicolic, Sefik Tatlic
 2015
 ISBN : 9782334007061

Introduction

The Missing Chapter of Empire
 Santiago Castro-Gomez

Within The Image
 Jonathan Beller

*Neutralizing Engaged Subjects in
 the Creative City*
 Josephine Berry Slater

The Agency of Art in the Unconscious
 Marc James Léger

The Art of New Class Geography in the City
 Ana Vilenica

The Creative Factory: Collective Creativity and Autonomy in the Neoliberal Machine of Creative Industry
 Sandi Abram

Neoliberalism and the Autonomy of Art: The Culture of Power, the Power of Culture
 Irmgard Emmelheinz

Search

See also

Economics Moneylab

Capitalism

PDF epub Md Print

Share on Facebook Twitter

The Gray Zones of Creativity And Capital

The initial idea that led to the preparation of this publication was not a reflection of the editors' wish to merely add another publication focusing on a critique of the relationship between creative industries and capital to the huge corpus of similar publications taking a critical stance towards the process of co-optation of creativity, creative industries, art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely through the logic of the mass production of critical texts dealing with the above-mentioned context, this publication as well will ultimately exist in such a register, the distinctive feature of this publication is its aspiration to place the relationship between creativity and capital in the context of an analysis wherein capitalism is treated as the framework of a broader relationship of domination, which to a great degree goes beyond the currently popular critical niche focused on analyzing the relationship between creativity, abstraction or representation in general and capital.

The vast majority of such publications are characterized by such a perception of the relationship between creativity and(1) capital, which implies that the co-optation and exploitation of work, creativity and attention occurs in a post-

1. art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely through the logic of the mass production of critical texts dealing with the above-mentioned context, this publication as well will ultimately exist in such a register

Gray Zones
Gordana Nicolic, Sefik Tatic
2015
ISBN : 9782334007061

Introduction

The Missing Chapter of Empire
Santiago Castro-Gomez

Within The Image
Jonathan Beller

*Neutralizing Engaged Subjects in
the Creative City*
Josephine Berry Slater

The Agency of Art in the Unconscious
Marc James Léger

*The Art of New Class Geography in
the City*
Ana Vilenica

The Creative Factory: Collective Creativity and Autonomy in the Neoliberal Machine of Creative Industry
Sandi Abram

Neoliberalism and the Autonomy of Art: The Culture of Power, the Power of Culture
Irmgard Emmelheinz

Search

See also

Economics Moneylab
Capitalism

PDF epub Md Print

Share on Facebook Twitter

The Gray Zones of Creativity And Capital

The initial idea that led to the preparation of this publication was not a reflection of the editors' wish to merely add another publication focusing on a critique of the relationship between creative industries and capital to the huge corpus of similar publications taking a critical stance towards the process of co-optation of creativity, creative industries, art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely through the logic of the mass production of critical texts dealing with the above-mentioned context, this publication as well will ultimately exist in such a register, the distinctive feature of this publication is its aspiration to place the relationship between creativity and capital in the context of an analysis wherein capitalism is treated as the framework of a broader relationship of domination, which to a great degree goes beyond the currently popular critical niche focused on analyzing the relationship between creativity, abstraction or representation in general and capital.

The vast majority of such publications are characterized by such a perception of the relationship between creativity and(1) capital, which implies that the co-optation and exploitation of work, creativity and attention occurs in a post-class, post-ideological or post-colonial context of the so-called "networked world or networked democracy", wherein<sup>1</sup> all subjects and their actions are reportedly subjected to the logic of capital in the same way. Regardless of whether we speak of the ideological use of the concept of creativity in the name of rationalization of the neoliberal strategies of transforming the city into ghettoized class and racial apartheds, whether we speak of the exploitation of attention (the economy of attention) by financial capital or generally about the

1. art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely through the logic of the mass production of critical texts dealing with the above-mentioned context, this publication as well will ultimately exist in such a register

Gray Zones
Gordana Nicolic, Sefik Tatlic
2015
ISBN : 9782334007061

Introduction

The Missing Chapter of Empire
Santiago Castro-Gómez

Within The Image
Jonathan Beller

Neutralizing Engaged Subjects in the Creative City
Josephine Berry Slater

The Agency of Art in the Unconscious
Marc James Léger

The Art of New Class Geography in the City
Ana Vilenica

The Creative Factory: Collective Creativity and Autonomy in the Neoliberal Machine of Creative Industry
Sandi Abram

Neoliberalism and the Autonomy of Art: The Culture of Power, the Power of Culture
Irmgard Emmelheinz

democracy

See also

Economics Moneylab
Capitalism

PDF epub Md Print

Share on Facebook Twitter

optation and exploitation of work, creativity and attention occurs in a post-class, post-ideological or post-colonial context of the so-called "networked world or networked democracy", wherein<sup>1</sup> all subjects and their actions are reportedly subjected to the logic of capital in the same way. Regardless of whether we speak of the ideological use of the concept of creativity in the name of rationalization of the neoliberal strategies of transforming the city into ghettoized class and racial apartheid, whether we speak of the exploitation of attention (the economy of attention) by financial capital or generally about the epistemological positioning of democracy creativity, abstraction or the domain of representation within the dominant form of rationalization and reproduction of capitalism, this publication strives to retain a critical view that sees these processes as forms of the perpetuation of the hegemony of capitalism in the so-called contemporary era.

As regards the temporal framework encompassed in this publication, although certain texts, through the logic of the necessity of historicization of specific strategies and practices refer to historical periods preceding the 21st century, the majority of the texts contained in this publication refer to social and political processes from the end of the 20th and the beginning of the 21st century, that is, the current period. In this sense, the dominant ideological discourses, strategies and power democracy relations of today constitute the focus of attention of the topics of this publication.

This publication, then, occupies a position that treats "the networked world", its democracies, cognitivities, attention and culture as domains wherein, or with help of which, forms of the reproduction of capitalism as a heterogeneous form of hegemony, primarily of the First World of capital or the West, are reorganized, "modernized". The title "The Gray Zones of Creativity and Capital" does not, therefore, point primarily to instances of vagueness and dichotomy in the analysis of the social meaning of the cooperation between creativity and capital, but assumes a critical stance towards "gray areas" in those dominant interpretations of capitalism that try to view it as a post-ideological, post-class or post-bloc system.

In this sense, the introductory text by Santiago Castro-Gómez, entitled "The Missing Chapter of Empire - Postmodern reorganization of coloniality and post-Fordist capitalism", critically addresses the interpretation of contemporary capitalism (presented in the text "Empire" by Antonio Negri and Michael Hardt) that views it as a system of equal exploitation of all. Castro-Gómez sees the

2. art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely

3. art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely through the logic of the mass production of critical texts dealing with the above-mentioned context, this publication as well will ultimately exist in such a register

Gray Zones
Gordana Nicolic, Sefik Tatlic
2015
ISBN : 9782334007061

Introduction

The Missing Chapter of Empire
Santiago Castro-Gómez

Within The Image
Jonathan Beller

Neutralizing Engaged Subjects in the Creative City
Josephine Berry Slater

The Agency of Art in the Unconscious
Marc James Léger

The Art of New Class Geography in the City
Ana Vilenica

The Creative Factory: Collective Creativity and Autonomy in the Neoliberal Machine of Creative Industry
Sandi Abram

Neoliberalism and the Autonomy of Art: The Culture of Power, the Power of Culture
Irmgard Emmelheinz

Search

See also

Economics Moneylab
Capitalism

PDF epub Md Print

Share on Facebook Twitter

optation and exploitation of work, creativity and attention occurs in a post-class, post-ideological or post-colonial context of the so-called "networked world or networked democracy", wherein<sup>1</sup> all subjects and their actions are reportedly subjected to the logic of capital in the same way. Regardless of whether we speak of the ideological use of the concept of creativity in the name of rationalization of the neoliberal strategies of transforming the city into ghettoized class and racial apartheds, whether we speak of the exploitation of attention (the economy of attention) by financial capital or generally about the epistemological positioning of creativity, abstraction or the domain of representation within the dominant form of rationalization and reproduction of capitalism, this publication strives to retain a critical view that sees these processes as forms of the perpetuation of the hegemony of capitalism in the so-called contemporary era.

As regards the temporal framework encompassed in this publication, although certain texts, through the logic of the necessity of historicization of specific strategies and practices refer to historical periods preceding the 21st century, the majority of the texts contained in this publication refer to social and political processes from the end of the 20th and the beginning of the 21st century, that is, the current period. In this sense, the dominant ideological discourses, strategies and power relations of today constitute the focus of attention of the topics of this publication.

This publication, then, occupies a position that treats "the networked world", its democracies, cognitivities, attention and culture as domains wherein, or with help of which, forms of the reproduction of capitalism as a heterogeneous form of hegemony, primarily of the First World of capital or the West, are reorganized, "modernized". The title "The Gray Zones of Creativity and Capital" does not, therefore, point primarily to instances of vagueness and dichotomy in the analysis of the social meaning of the cooperation between creativity and capital, but assumes a critical stance towards "gray areas" in those dominant interpretations of capitalism that try to view it as a post-ideological, post-class or post-bloc system.

In this sense, the introductory text by Santiago Castro-Gómez, entitled "The Missing Chapter of Empire - Postmodern reorganization of coloniality and post-Fordist capitalism", critically addresses the interpretation of contemporary capitalism (presented in the text "Empire" by Antonio Negri and Michael Hardt) that views it as a system of equal exploitation of all. Castro-Gómez sees the

2. art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely

3. art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely through the logic of the mass production of critical texts dealing with the above-mentioned context, this publication as well will ultimately exist in such a register

optation and exploitation of work, creativity and attention occurs in a post-class, post-ideological or post-colonial context of the so-called “networked world or networked democracy”, wherein<sup>1</sup> all subjects and their actions are reportedly subjected to the logic of capital in the same way. Regardless of whether we speak of the ideological use of the concept of creativity in the name of rationalization of the neoliberal strategies of transforming the city into ghettoized class and racial apartheds, whether we speak of the exploitation of attention (the economy of attention) by financial capital or generally about the epistemological positioning of creativity, abstraction or the domain of representation within the dominant form of rationalization and reproduction of capitalism, this publication strives to retain a critical view that sees these processes as forms of the perpetuation of the hegemony of capitalism in the so-called contemporary era.

As regards the temporal framework encompassed in this publication, although certain texts, through the logic of the necessity of historicization of specific strategies and practices refer to historical periods preceding the 21st century, the majority of the texts contained in this publication refer to social and political processes from the end of the 20th and the beginning of the 21st century, that is, the current period. In this sense, the dominant ideological discourses, strategies and power relations of today constitute the focus of attention of the topics of this publication.

This publication, then, occupies a position that treats “the networked world”, its democracies, cognitivities, attention and culture as domains wherein, or with help of which, forms of the reproduction of capitalism as a heterogeneous form of hegemony, primarily of the First World of capital or the West, are reorganized, “modernized”. The title “The Gray Zones of Creativity and Capital” does not, therefore, point primarily to instances of vagueness and dichotomy in the analysis of the social meaning of the cooperation between creativity and capital, but assumes a critical stance towards “gray areas” in those dominant interpretations of capitalism that try to view it as a post-ideological, post-class or post-bloc system.

In this sense, the introductory text by Santiago Castro-Gómez, entitled “The Missing Chapter of Empire - Postmodern reorganization of coloniality and post-Fordist capitalism”, critically addresses the interpretation of contemporary capitalism (presented in the text “Empire” by Antonio Negri and Michael Hardt) that views it as a system of equal exploitation of all. Castro-Gómez sees the capitalism of today as a modernized form of the colonial division of the world,

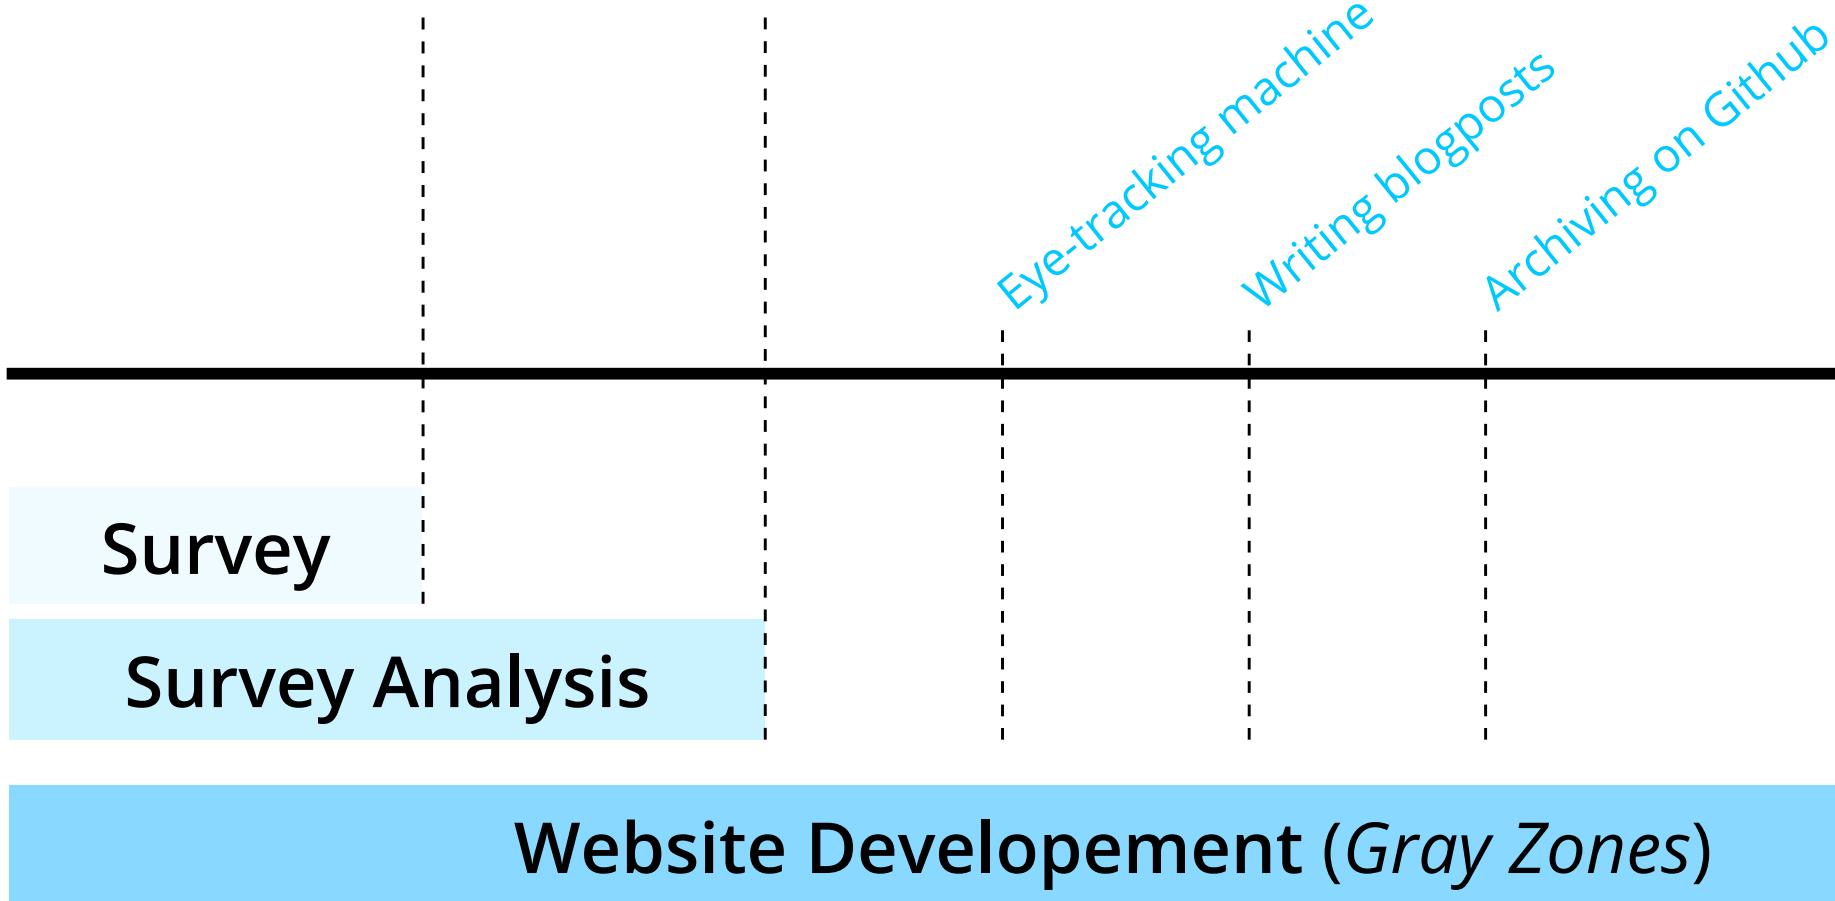

2. art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely

3. art or the domain of abstraction in general by capital. Even though, precisely through the logic of the mass production of critical texts dealing with the above-mentioned context, this publication as well will ultimately exist in such a register

Next Steps

Next sprint

23 Oct.      30 Oct.

Next sprint

Survey

- Analysis of the survey
- Which functions should be implemented?
(based on the collection of references)

Design

- Designing countless prototypes

MoneyLab

- Planning the unfolding of the event
- Thinking about the functions which can be implemented